Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed, it can be treated with a medicine that will reach the seat of the disease. It is called "Hear Again." It is a small bottle, and it is sold by all druggists.

WATTERSON ON GOEBEL BILL.

Here is An Appeal Made Just Prior to the Passage of That Infamous Law in The Louisville Courier-Journal.

"The Brood of Evil They Invoke Always Comes Home to Roost"—Id.

Courier-Journal, February 20th, 1898.

The people may well stand against before the revolutionary Election Bill which has like some dread monster, suddenly emerged from the fastnesses of passion and error through which the Legislature has been threatening its tortuous way. It is safe to say that the annuals of free government will be sought in vain for anything approaching its shameless effrontery and unbecoming deformity. The records of reconstruction furnish nothing to compare with it. The Brownlow despotism in Tennessee was considered tolerably wicked and tolerably thorough in its day. But the Brownlow despotism at its worst ventured upon nothing so boldly, wholly and so base.

In all the force bills mentioned by the Radicals in Congress during the dark days of reconstruction there were discernible some pretense and pretext, some lingering memory of republican instincts and traditions. Even the Proclamation of Louis Napoleon then was the outer display of a just Electoral process and purpose. This force bill gives the voters of Kentucky not a ray of hope. It makes no claim or show of fairness. It places exclusively in the hands of three irresponsible persons to be appointed by the measure itself the entire Electoral machinery of the state. That is the whole of it. In one word, and at one fell swoop, Kentucky is to become the subject of a triumvirate, which is to decide who shall hold office and who shall not. Nominally the people are to be permitted still to go through the form of elections. They are to be permitted still to vote. The ballot box is not actually abolished. But the triumvirate in each and every case to cast up the returns and determine the result.

Naturally the question recurs why three Commissioners when one would serve the purpose quite as well? Thrift being the order of the day, why not as set naming a single Commissioner to cast a single vote for the entire state, as is sometimes done in local board meetings? Why waste the hard-earned money of the taxpayer on a triumvirate, when a dictator would do much as much cheaper? Senator William Goebel is the reputed author of this bill. At least, it stands in his name, and in the Legislature he is his foremost supporter. Among those who have lately come into the foreground of Kentucky politics this gentleman stands easily first as a master of political strategy. Self-possessed, shrewd and fearless, he seems to belong to that category of born leaders. Such men are capable of great public good or great public mischief. The Courier-Journal would not summarily, nor willingly, dismiss Senator Goebel to the latter classification. The man with which he has linked his name and, for the time being, identified his fortunes, is of sweeping viciousness and far-reaching evil. The Alien and Sedition Laws which enfolded and destroyed the old Federal party were not less oppressive and unconstitutional in their character. But the coolest men are sometimes carried away by the passions that surround them, and this winter there has been nothing but passion at Frankfort. Indeed, of the present Democratic leaders in Kentucky, might one, without exaggeration or partiality, exclaim: "O, judgment! thou art set to bristling feasts, And men have lost their reason."

Sensor Goebel is no worse than the rest, and, except in this atrocious measure, has shown himself something better. But, like Caesar, that was ambitious, he wants to be Governor of Kentucky, and he sees, or thinks he sees, a finer chariot to bear him thither in the Electoral Bill that bears his name.

Woe! though not irretrievable mistake; for, granting that with the machinery of his bill in his hands, his ambition may be profitably met, he is gratified, what should it profit him if he gains the mastery of the universe and lose his own soul, and along with it his good name, as the slayer of civil liberty. Mr. Goebel is a young man. He is an aspiring man. He is an able and a brave man. May we not, as a friend, and without prejudice or misrepresentation, tell him that in his ambition, to hold up the people and the state, and, after a brief unbroken reign in office, to pass from the scene discarded forever? For nothing can be surer than that if this bill should become a law, it is only a question of time and of a very short time, when all concerned in its passage will be running to cover from the wrath of an outraged people, and when those responsible for its being will have to pay the forfeit of their folly and crime in ignominy and disgrace.

But the Goebel Bill will never be enacted into law. The Democrats of Kentucky have not sunk so low as that. There is a limit even to the fury of factional passion. There are honest men upon the prosperous capacity of sectional leadership. The people cannot have gone completely and incurably mad. There is yet some grace left in the manhood of Kentucky to rise in its might and to say to this wicked attempt to steal its birthright of freedom in open day and before its eyes "I forbid."

The time is short, but everywhere throughout Kentucky there should be public sentiment to Washington, and to send delegations to Frankfort to protest against this monstrous usurpation of power by a few unscrupulous and designing men. If this be not done, and done quickly and decisively, there are free elections and free government at an end. Senator Goebel, the states given over into the keeping of a clique of self-appointed party managers, not to be recovered by the people short of a political revolution. With the machinery of this Goebel Bill in his hands, Mr. Goebel becomes as completely master of the situation in Kentucky as Diaz in Mexico or Menelik in Abyssinia.

Like all measures gotten up to serve pretended private purposes, yet in reality aimed to promote private advantage, this Election Bill is opposed to every conceivable Democratic principle. The free election, the free suffrage election, to be held under its operations and restrictions, will be for Congressmen next November. All the Republicans will need to do will be to protest against the rulings of the triumvirate in each district, send delegations to Washington, and rely upon the Republican chief clerk of the House of Representatives, who makes up the roll of the next Congress, to enter their names. The issue thus joined may determine the complexion of the next Congress, and against the Democrats, since the Republicans will have the first say. In case of a disputed state election it is a question whether the state Courts would not throw out the law as unconstitutional. Assuredly, the act itself, if passed, might be described as "an act to deprive the commonwealth of Kentucky of its republican form of government," for, whereas, most force bills have preserved the outward forms of republicanism, this bill definitely creates a three-man power, under a man-made, as opposed to liberty as the Directory in France under Barras, or the Consulate, after Napoleon had captured the Revolution, as Mr. Goebel seems to have captured the Democratic party machinery.

In point of fact, the Democratic party, as a party, has everything to lose and nothing to gain, for, as to the immediate future, what such desperate expedients are resorted to it is impossible to predict with certainty exactly how they will work, whilst as to their ultimate results there can be no manner of doubt. Such measures always result in reaction. Always come home to roost. The very suggestion of so wicked a resort is a confession of weakness. It is an open declaration that the authors dare not meet the people face to face and in the open. It is the resurrection out of the depths of infamy and disgrace where the people laid them of worn out and cast-off radical methods and policies and their application to the supposed exigencies of a faction of Democratic politicians, who proclaim themselves to be, except for this device, both impotent and bankrupt.

The Courier-Journal speaks warmly because it feels warmly. But it would arraign the motives, question the integrity of no man. As it values its own honor it would assail the honor of none other, and surely it has no festival interest in its report. Cast it in by all factions, an outlaw in the house where it was once a master—and willing, yes, glorying in its subjection and its martyrdom for truth's sake and its country's sake—if good shall come to either—what boots it to us when aspirants to Governor of Kentucky, or who sit in the high place of the mud.

This monstrous usurpation of power needs no explanation. It is so simple a child may read and understand it. But no power can stop it unless the people of Kentucky, not yet wholly lost to liberty, manhood and self-respect, arise in their majesty, and arise at once, to call off the maddened dogs of war whom passion and faction have let loose at Frankfort, and who, having had a taste of blood, ready the very eagles that guard the commonwealth from limb, leaving the people only the bare and worthless bones.

UNCLE SAM AND GREATER AMERICA

The West Union liar is allowing his imagination to chase a lunatic with a long knife in the neighborhood of that town.

The only wonder is that the daily papers will persist in publishing such rot—Don't

Not a bit wonderful, neighbor. Correspondents are employed by some of the daily papers solely because of their capacity for lying. This is because some read prefer sensational stories over sober facts. If lovers of truth would quit buying these lying daily papers, the lying correspondent and the lying daily paper would soon become things of the past.

This is how GOBEL expects to become Governor, whether enough people vote for him or not.

Captain J. K. NOLAN, a member of a large clothing firm of Louisville, says that he had a conversation with GEORGE

GEORGE PARKS of Lancaster, a prominent Goebel worker, during which the latter exposed the scheme whereby GOBEL hoped to be made Governor.

According to Captain NOLAN the conversation was as follows:

The two met on the train soon after the

Goebel Bill was passed and Captain NOLAN happened to say that Kentucky was a close state.

"Oh, no, things are different now," said

Senator PARKS with a smile. "We do the voting now all by ourselves."

"But," said Captain NOLAN, "I understand that the Election Commission members are men of character. How then can you gain an election by this bill?"

"That is very simple," said Senator PARKS. "There is an obscure clause in the bill that says all votes must be counted ten days after the election. Certain counties where the votes might be against us can easily be kept back ten days, and the Election Commissioners will not be required to do any dirty work to accomplish the desired end."

Captain NOLAN said that from what he learns out in the state this method will be used in many of the counties that promise to bring a heavy Republican vote.

Augusta is falling into line and will have

Street Fair in the near future.

Statistics show that a man could travel 72,

000,000 miles on railroads of the United States before meeting death from accident and dent.

IS IT RIGHT

For An Editor to Recommend Patent and Medicine?

From Spoken Valley News, Breckin, N. C.

It may be a question whether the Editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventative of suffering we feel it duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the onset of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the creation of a physician would be unnecessary.

At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by J. Jas.

NEWS IN KENTUCKY.

GEN. WM. S. TAYLOR.

The Republican Candidate for Governor of Kentucky Was Born in a Log Cabin on the Banks of Green River in 1853.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 14.—William

Sylvester Taylor, of Butler county, the Republican candidate for governor of Kentucky, was born October 10, 1853, in a typical log cabin on the banks of Green river, five miles from Morgantown. He worked on his father's farm, and for a few years he taught school.

He made stump speeches while a candidate for county clerk. During his time he read law and was admitted to the bar when out of office.

In 1880, for the first time in the history of the county, a Republican ticket was elected, Taylor being the candidate for county judge. He was a delegate to the Chicago convention of 1888, and was reelected judge in 1890. He has been Third district member of the state committee since 1898.

In 1893 he was elected attorney general of Kentucky.

NEGRO STATE TICKET.

Some Colored Men of Lexington, Disastried With Taylor's Nomination, Will Have a Ticket of Their Own.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 14.—Some of the Negroes of Lexington are still disastried with the nomination of Gen. Taylor for governor and an effort will be made by them to defeat him. A number of prominent Negroes of this city held a mass meeting Thursday afternoon with several members of the Hambrick delegation of Louisville and declared to place a Negro ticket in the field this fall.

A conference will be held in Louisville next Friday afternoon and a ticket nominated. Dr. E. E. Underwood, of Frankfort, W. H. Stewart, of Louisville, and Editor E. C. O. Her-jamin, of this city, are at the head of the movement and one of three will receive the nomination for governor.

They have no idea of winning but claim that if they will cause Taylor to lose colored votes.

cess, as both branches of these old heroes are more anxious to hold such a meeting here. In preparing to conduct the boys who were the big and the boys who were the gray the merchants and other business men, and, in fact, all citizens who are able,
